

PORT SECURITY

6-7 June 2006 • Liberty/Ellis Islands • U.S. Customs House • New York, NY

HOMELAND

U.S. NAVAL INSTITUTE
2006 Homeland Port Security Conference
291 Wood Road
Annapolis, MD 21402-5034

Nonprofit
U.S. Postage
Paid
U.S. Naval Institute

For registration information, log onto www.usni.org or call (800) 233-8764.

PORT SECURITY

Coordinating the Integrated, Layered Response

“The nature of the maritime domain requires an integrated, layered approach to its security. With 95,000 miles of coastline and 360 primary commercial ports, there is no fence or barrier that can be erected to protect our maritime borders. We are bounded by the oceans, but we’re not protected by them....”

VADM Thad W. Allen, USCG, Prospective Commandant of the U. S. Coast Guard, to the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Homeland Security, 6 April 2006

Please join senior U.S. Navy and Coast Guard officers as well as civilian, political, and business leaders on 6-7 June for a critical forum on Homeland Port Security. This important event will thrust decision makers into real-time simulations of simultaneous terrorist attacks against three key ports on the East Coast of the United States.

Following the conference, we will publish lessons learned in Proceedings magazine, and encourage the dialogue to continue in subsequent issues.

HOTEL RESERVATIONS AT SPECIAL RATES

Please contact either The Embassy Suites Hotel (walking distance to the event) at (212) 945-0100 or The Hotel Pennsylvania (15-minute taxi ride) at (800) 223-8585 and mention you are attending the USNI Homeland Port Security Conference.

USNI HOMELAND PORT SECURITY CONFERENCE

6-7 June 2006 • Liberty/Ellis Islands • U.S. Customs House • New York, NY

TUESDAY, 6 JUNE

VIP Liberty Island Security Tour/Briefing, LT Charles Guddemi, Station Commander, U.S. Park Police;
Cocktail Reception and Dinner at The Great Hall at Ellis Island

Attend a private tour and security briefing of the most visible symbol of liberty in the country: The Statue of Liberty, followed by a cocktail reception and dinner at The Great Hall at Ellis Island.

WEDNESDAY, 7 JUNE

Homeland Port Security Conference
Customs House, Lower Manhattan, NY

Distinguished leaders from the military, government, industry, and academia will discuss an integrated response to simulated terrorist attacks and identify critical issues and challenges, such as:

- Communication logistics during emergencies: Is everyone on the same page?
- Command and control: Who's in charge in a layered response scenario?
- Secure shipping: How do we monitor and secure the supply chain?
- Terrorist attacks on commerce and energy: What are the financial implications?
- Information flow: How do agencies disseminate unclassified information and lessons learned from war gaming?

Dr. James JF Forest

Director of Terrorism Studies, Combating Terrorism Center, U.S. Military Academy

CAPT Al Fuentes, FDNY (Ret.)

Former acting Battalion Chief of Marine Division on 9/11

ADM James D. Hull, USCG (Ret.)

Former Commander, USCG Atlantic Area, 2002-04

ADM Timothy J. Keating, USN

Commander, U.S. Northern Command

Raymond W. Kelly

Police Commissioner, City of New York

RADM Deborah A. Loewer, USN

Commander, Mine Warfare Command

The Honorable Paul McHale

Assistant Secretary of Defense for Homeland Defense

James Lee Witt

Former FEMA Director

Michael A. Wermuth

Director, Homeland Security Program, The RAND Corporation

DISTINGUISHED INVITED SPEAKERS INCLUDE:

VADM Thad Allen, USCG

Prospective Commandant of the U. S. Coast Guard

Bruce A. Blakeman

Chair of the Security Committee, Board of Commissioners, Port Authority of New York and New Jersey

Stephen E. Flynn

Jeane J. Kirkpatrick Senior Fellow for National Security Studies, Council of Foreign Relations; author of America the Vulnerable; former adviser, Hart-Rudman Commission

Frances Fragos Townsend

Assistant to the President for Homeland Security/Counter Terrorism (APHS/CT)